NYSE: SCCO

Southern Copper Corporation

COMPANY INFO:

Southern Copper Corporation (NYSE: SCCO) is a subsidiary of Grupo México, a mining, infrastructure, and transportation conglomerate. SCCO has operations in Peru, Mexico, Argentina, Ecuador, and Chile. It primarily mines and refines copper, but is also involved in processing silver, gold, zinc, lead, molybdenum, and coal.

Many analysts are predicting (see videos on page 3 of this report) a massive surge in demand for copper over the next decade due to it being the best material for transmitting electricity. According to the 2020 Annual Report for Freeport-McMoRan Inc. (FCX), another prominent copper producer, well over half of the world's copper is used to deliver electricity, electric vehicles use far more copper than cars with internal combustion engines, and renewable energy industries use more copper than fossil fuel power generation.

SCCO's market cap is currently around $50 Billion, with an average daily share volume of about 1.4 million. The current dividend yield is around 5.50%, paid quarterly, which is relatively high for this type of company. The next Dividend Ex-Date is coming up on 08/11/2021.

SCCO may be a good stock to consider holding both to take advantage of the likely massive growth in demand for copper over the next few years and to receive a high dividend yield.
